

As a citizen of Indiana, I wish to speak out regarding proposal 02-278. I registered for the Indiana Do-Not-Call list to avoid telemarketing phone calls. I certainly do not appreciate the efforts by the CBA to reduce the effectiveness of the regulation of this list. I have auto loans with one of the CBA member banks and DO NOT wish to receive any phone calls from them soliciting any additional business. I would also be severely displeased to allow CBA to set such a precedent. This would virtually eliminate any effectiveness of Indiana's Do-Not-Call list by allowing other entities to claim the same "rights." If I wanted to receive annoying calls at all hours trying to strong-arm me into purchasing any number of items or services, I would not have registered to the list. Why should this organization be allowed to go against the obvious desires of the 3 million+ people who have registered for protection from telemarketing calls. I sincerely urge you to consider the wishes of the common citizen over those of organizations trying only to separate citizens from more of their money and their ability to achieve peace and quiet in their homes.
